PRESIDENTIAL.

THE PEOPLES'S TICKET. The following are the candidates who will be voted for by the People of North-Carolina, on the second Thursday of November next, for Electors of President and Vice President of the William B. Lockhart, of Northampton do.

Edward B Dudley, of Wilmington do.

Gen. VINE ALLEN has been nominated by the people of Newbern district, as a candidate for Elector, on the People's Ticket, in the place of William S. Blackledge, Esq. declined standing. The following proceedings of the people took place on the nomination of Gen. Allen:

FROM THE NEWBERN SENTINEL. Pursuant to the notice in our last, a ve ry respectable and numerous body of citizens convened at the Court House in this town on Thursday evening last; when John F. Smith, Esq. was called to the Chair, who, in an appropriate and per-spicuous manner declared the object of the meeting; and John H. Bryan, F.sq. meeting was organized and proceeded to business

Col. John I. Pasteur offered the follow ing preamble and resolutions, which were acceded to without a dissenting voice :

Whereas it behoves every free people to be jealous of their political privileges, more especially of so important a right as the unbiassed expression of their suffrages in the election of the Chief Magistrate of the nation; and to guard such right as well from domestic intrigue, as from foreign interference; and we, having assembled in pursuance of public notice, for the purpose of selecting a suitable person to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of the Hon. Wm. S. Blackledge, as a Candidate for Elector on the People's Ticket, and being desirous to preserve to ourselves a voice in the nomination of so important a trustee of the People's rights, therefore,

Resolved, that it is the decided sense of this meeting, that all nominations by officers of the national government, is a usurpation of the rights of the People, and tends to the utter subversion of the pure principles of the federal constitution.

Col. Aathan Tisdale nominated Gen. VINE ALLEN, as a Candidate for the office of Elector on the People's Ticket; whereupon, Gen. Allen being requested by the Chairman to give this meeting some pledge of his vote, if elected, rose, and declared, in substance, that he was opposed to the election of the individual nominated by the late Congressional Caucus; and that he should, if returned to the Electoral College of this State, support for the Presidency that candidate who, in opposition to Mr. Crawford, should be found to unite a majority of the votes of the State. The nomination was then unanimously concurred in.

Resolved, Thas a Committee be appointed to correspond with our fellow cirizens in the counties composing this electoral district, on any matters relative to the success of the People's Ticket, and in furtherance of the views of this meeting.

The following persons were then appointed to compose the said Committee:
Onslow.—Col. C. Dudley, Daniel M. Delany, and Lewis T. Oliver, Esquires. Jones .- Col. Lewis Foscue, Col. Lemgel Hatch, and R. Kornegay, Esq.

Craven .- John H. Bryan, Esq. Col. John I. Pasteur, and John S. Nelson, Esq. Lenoir .- Hardy B. Croom, John Gatlin, and John Cobb, Esquires.

Greene.-Gen. Jesse Spaight, Major John Williams, and Col. J. G. Shepard. Carteret .- Dr. James Manney, Isaac Hellen, Esq. and Capt. Otway Burns.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be published in the Carolina Sentinel.

A numerous meeting of the democratical republicans of Newcastle county, Delaware, took place on the 11th of Sept. to nominate a ticket for the support of the democratic party of that state: at that meeting, a resolution was passed, disapproving, in the strongest terms, the nom ination by the caucus at Washington, of William H. Crawford for President, and Albert Gallatin for Vice President. That county is decided for Jackson; and if the people of Delaware had the electing of their Electors, Jackson would be sure of the votes of that state.

At a meeting of the citizens of Lower Salem, Sumpter District, S. C. a vote on the Presidential subject was taken, which resulted as follows:

For Jackson. Adams,

It is well understood at Ralaigh, that almost the whole of the communications that appear in the Register, are from the pens of two individuals; one of whom is Virginian, hackneyed in the arts of intrigue, and connected with the " Junto at Richmond" in more ways than one. The other is a foreigner by birth, education, and principle-who has no interest in this country, except his money bags, which he can, at a week's notice, training the late port to his native soil. Freemen of North-Carolina, these are the sort of characters that now step forward to dragoon you into the support of Crawford and caucus !

An Observer of 1814, as well as of 1824.

FOR THE WESTERN CAROLINIAN.

The present is a crisis big with important events; the political salvation of not less than ten millions of people, depends upon the consequences of the existing tumults of the political elements. And is there a patriot, is there a man, who cherishes a love for the free institutions of his country, who hopes to see them go down unaltered to posterity, but must view with inquietude and alarm any indication of change in our invaluable system of government? That there are such patriotic citizen. The disdain to be shackled with the chains of caucus despotism, and who spurn an association with men who, under the guise of republicans, seek to perpetuate a system, the direct tendency of which is to deprive us of the privileges of freemen, the progress of the political contest which now agitates the nation has triumphantly developed. When bad men league together, the virtuous should be watchful of their movements. The complexion of the times demands that all upright politicians should unite their energies for the maintenance of principle, even at the sacrifice of men.

What is the course which North carolina will pursue at this jancture? Will she tamely follow in the wake of the "ancient dominion?" Will she follow in a track which even Virginia blindly pursucs at the bidding of the Richmond party? or will she assume an attitude of independence, and burst asunder the fetters of Virginia influence? If she does not, then indeed is she the veriest slave that North-Carolina has a will of her own, which she will exercise in spite of all the designing politicians of her own and her sister state, who have enlisted under the banners of King Caucus, and his worthy instrument the " national candidate." Never can it be said that North-Carolina, foremost to declare her emancipation from British thraldom, when the flame of liberty blazed forth with such splendor in the "times that tried men's souls," gave her countenance to the base attempt of imposing upon the nation a chief magistrate whose political character is equivocal-whose sentiments upon the great questions which for years have been agiated in the national legislature, are studiously concealed-who heads a faction industriously labouring to undermine an administration of which he is a member, and bound by duty and honor to support. and which is loading with obloquy the distinguished individual at the head of that administration, venerable alike for his age and his labours, the least of whose services infinitely transcend any that the Secretary of the Treasury has ever rendered-in a word, a candidate whose integrity is of doubtful character, and who is without a shadow of claim to her support, unless it be that he was born in Virginia, and bred in Georgia. North-Caroa will be found in the patriotic states which disdain fealty to the caucus system; she will give the countenance of her approbation to the system of policy which has governed the present administration, under the benign influence of which our internal resources are daily developing our march to the full vigor of menhood, proceeding with a steady and rapid pace, our republican institutions tenaciously adhered to, and our respectability abroad firmly established. These, emphatically, are the great results of Mr. Monroe's administration; it is based on principles which have descended to us from the "father of his country"administration of Washington; they are recorded in the inimitable document, his farewell address." And I verily believe, that if we are destined to witness a departure from these revered maxims, it will be through the agency of that restless faction, which seeks the elevation of Wm. H. Crawford to the presidency. What will be the issue of such a state of things? Our Navy annihilated, our army disbanded, our forts dismantled and given up to dilapidation, leaving us exposed to the hostile attacks of European ambition on the one hand, and a prey to the mur- and Jackson the highest on the list, than bow.

Such, it must be conceled, is the ten dency at least of the principles by which as 13 mayed to wast the radical chief into the current of popular Avor. I no entry will be visited with a signal defeat, and the "divinity of the treasury will be prostrated." The people have tested the soundness of those principles which have directed the course of the present administration and which are derived from Washirgton himself. They behold the nation advancing rapidly in wealth, commerce and a knowledge of their inestimable privileges-in the scale of all humati improvement, in arts, sciences and literature; they see it respected abroad, and in the enjoyment of happiness at home; and they deprecate a change which would substitute an untried system, rentered dubious by speculation, and demoistrated, by the experience of others, to be fraught with ruin.

Who, then, of the candidates before the people, are devoted to the policy which has marked the administration of a Washington, a Jefferson, a Madison, by the marshal, clerk, &c.; but judge and a Monroe, under which the nation Thompson, thinking a tavern an unsuitahas continued to prosper? Andrew Jackson, John Quincy Adams, and Henry Clay, are alike worthy of public confidence; should any one of these distinguished men be elected, the nation will be saved, andthe government will be administered agreeably to the pure princi- for the term-and of course, a term of ples of our constitution: The death blow the court was lost. will be gives to that gigantic power which has grown up at the seat of the general government, and to its various ramifications in the different states; the fair features of our government will be preserved pure and undefiled. We invite the attention of our readers to the article on the first page of to-day's through this state, the regiment of Cavalry bepaper. It is from the pen of an old and longing to Mecklenburg and Cabarrus counties, experienced politician, and is worthy of being on duty at Concord when the orders arthe serious perusal of all who wish light and information on the subject of which yet taken the pains to settle their minds on the Presidential question, it is time they should now do so, for the day of election (the eleventh day of November) is near at hand. Perhaps there never was a more important political contest in this country, since our emancipation from British thraldom. It therefore behooves the people, who are so deeply interested, to be watchful, vigilant and active. Remember, that the contest is, the caucus against the PEOPLE! ----

THE CROPS.

The corn crops in this vicinity are generally good; and, with the exception of some strips of country where the drought prevailed early in the season, there will be a reasonable harvest. We are sorry, however, to learn, that the crops by the drought; but recently, the continued and the virtuous and magnanimous conduct of that drenching rains have proven very fatal to it : a great portion of the bolls were affected by the rot, and fell off; and almost all that had opened before the rains set in, was so injured as not to be started by some patriotic individual, and yet be ascertained. be worth picking out. It is the prevailing opinion among Farmers, that not more than half a crop of cotton will be made this season-many think not even that much. If this staple is injured in other districts of country as extensively as it is in this, the general product of the year deficiency will be seriously felt by the people of lowing result : this and the adjacent districts of country-more particularly by those who are in debt, and look for relief from the influx of money that follows the sale of the year's crop of cotton.

-----A NEW PAPER.

We last week received the first number of a new paper, just established in the town of Char-tawba Journar Editor is our former associate, Mr. Lemuel Bingham, and late editor of the Fayetteville Observer. The Catawba Journal makes its appearance on a sheet of the size of the Western Carolinian, with neat type, and well impressed.

Although we are aware the "Journal" will, in some measure, crowd us out from a part of the ground we hitherto have occupied, still we sincerely wish the Editor success in his new enterprize. A well-conducted newspaper is always of intrinsic value and importance to its immediate neighborhood-and, indeed, wherever it is read. It is a convenient vehicle for the dissemination of all kinds of information-moral, political, and miscellaneous: it scatters rays of light and knowledge wherever it circulates. Such, we hope and believe, will be the "Catawba Journal." As to its politics, we know the principles of the editor too well, not to believe he will be firmly opposed to caucus dictation and radical intrigue.

----GREAT FRESHET.

The highest freshet ever known in the Catawba, was witnessed in that river a few weeks since. The damage it caused to low-ground crops, is said to be immense. And what aggravates the misfortune, is, that the corn crops or the uplands bordering on the river, had previously been almost ruined by the long and severe drought in the summer. Information from Burke, enables us to say, not only that the corr was swept from the river fields, but that in many cases the soil itself was washed away by the swelling flood, ruining some of the best lands in the country. We learn that the stream near Morganton, called Silver Creek, swelled to such a height as to reach the second story of Mr. Greenlee's house, situated some distance up the hill; and that, in like manner, the waters of Muddy Creek passed through Mr. Rutherford's house, situated on the road leading from Morganton to Buncombe.

Great injury has been done by this freshet to the new Saluda road in South Carolina; the bridges were carried away, and the road so torn "" robading we 'Atarii tilat tile swell was unusually great, doing extensive damage to the fields of corn on the bottom-lands. We feel a satisfaction, however, in congratulating our immediate neighbors on their exemption from this wide-spread damage : the river opposite this place did not rise more than 8 or 10 feet above the common water-mark. The rains here, though constant, did not fall in such profuse torrents as to raise the water-courses uncommonly high. Lower down the river, however, we are told that there was an extraordinary swell in the creeks. Considerable injury has been sustained by the farmers in Anson county, as well in their cotton as corn crops.

GENERAL LA PAVETTE.

Orders having been issued by Gov. Holmon, hrough Adjutant General Daniel, to the Brig. Gen. of the 11th Rrigade of North-Carolina militia, for a quota from his brigade, to join the escort which will attend Gen. LA FATETTE rived, eighty men therefrom immediately volunteered their services to go to Fayetteville for the above purpose: Among these volunteers, If there are any persons who have not the Regiment. An election was then held for officers to command the detachment; when Col. Thomas G. Polk (the late commander of the Regiment) was unanimously selected as captain; I.t. Col. Jumes .A. Means as 1st lieutenant ; Col. Robinson as 2d lieutenant; and Maj. Parks as cornet. It is believed that, by the time the detachment marches for Fayetteville, the number will be increased to one hundred. This corps will number, among its members, the bravest and most respectable citizens of Mecklenburg and Cabarrus counties. Rank, fortune, and patriotism, combine to render the detachment one peculiarly worthy of the service for which it is destined. We may venture to affirm, that the illustrious Guest of the Nation, the benefactor of America, La Fayerra, will no where in the United States have seen a body of citizen-soldiers

FROM THE COLUMBIA TELESCOPS. ACADEMICAL EDUCATION. Messrs. Editors: One cause why parents are so careless as to the disposal of their youth in their Academic course, is, that they value so little the importance of academic education. In order to excite the attention of parents and guardians to this point, permit me to occupy your paper once more. In this communication, I shall also quote, whatever is pertinent, and tends to shew a general concurrence of opinion on the subject. As a pertinent quotation, I feel happy in being able to recite the language of that distinguished statesman, John C. Calhoun, whom our country, I verily believe, will, at some future day, elevate to the Presidential chair. Conversing with a gentleman | New-York, enlarged the Advocate, in the South, he observed: "In search of those men who will hereafter be the pillars of our government, I go to well organized academies in religious neighborhoods. In our dissipated cities every laudable effort is generally paralized by temptation, and every flattering prospect blighted by intemperance. But in the academies to which I allude, order is preserved, morality is maintained, and systematic habits of study are formed. These give talents their proper direction, and call into action, powers of mind which would otherwise lie dormant. And such are the temptations in most of our colleges, that it requires a course through such academies, to form in young men habits of sufficient strength to resist the enticements of the profligate and the snares of death." No testimony could be more explicit, or more valuable, than this, in behalf of the importance of academic education. To this, I will add another. It is a representation to be public on the importance of academies, issued in North Carolina in 1821. After a complimentary notice, very justly taken, of character; for be assured, whoever the Rev. J. M. Wilson, Principal of you are, that you have a sore place in the Rocky River Academy, since dissolved, the report proceeds: "Whether men of so great worth, and of the profession of those who engaged in make a friend by smiles—what a folly Academies in our country, teaching should be thus occupied, is not a question now to be determined; but it is worthy of remark, that some of the most distinguished men, in different ages of the world, have been thus engaged, and some bright luminaries in science have been thus educated.

"Follow some of the greatest men in the Grecian and Rowan republics, to the sources from which they received their education, and you will go with then mandamine. Men no less dis-Pythagoras, Plato and Socrates, taught academies, and taught some distinguished men. Look at Europe, when that flood of light burst upon it, which opened the eyes of deluded thousands. and how was it ushered in? It was principally by academies.

"In our own country, some of its brightest ornaments in church and state, have been educated exclusively in academies. These facts show us the folly of those attempts which have been made, even in our own state, to wrest away from academies their proper dignity, and so contract their operations, that hirelings alone will engage in conducting them. It is a blow enjoyment.

made at the foundation of science, made insidiously, it is confessedbut made from interested and contracted designs. Give to academies that respectability which they should claim,

Gentlemen, I wish not to see our youth detained at academies, success for years urgent reasons. I have no opinion of the small concett that would swell an academy to the size of a college; although there are some small colleges, and some eminent academies, in our country. It is because I value highly our colleges and universities, that I wish to see our academies elevated in their standing. If a college ability, is now recommended to the attention of the public. The Trustees are aware of the little reliance which can be placed on recommended. academy that introduce students within its walls, be an elegant portico? Generally speaking, more time is spent in preparing for college, than in pas-sing through its course. And within the period of preparation, embracing the most docile and critical age of man -from 10 or 12, to 17-the mental, and the moral, and the religious habits of youth are to be formed. It is in vain to expect a student to form good mental habits of accuracy, discrimination and order, at college, if he has not attained to this at some preparatory school. If he has got into bad mental habits, which require labor to displace them, and has passed the most ductile season of youth, his college course cannot do him any real good. So also in regard to other ha-A. B.

THE second anniversary of this society, will be holden at the Church in Morganton, on Tuesday, Oct. 26th. This being one of the days appointed for holding the county court, it is hoped that many will find it convenient to attend. The clergymen of every denomination, are invited to be present, and aid the cause of the institution by their counsels and exhortations. Subscribers and managers are requested to set the third accounts with the Treasurer, on or before that day, as a large amount is now due to the parent society.
